This settlement is ridiculous. It does nothing to Microsoft, which is what Microsoft and Bill Gates wants, because they think they didn't do anything wrong. And this latest development, where Microsoft is giving $1.7 billion in software to schools, is just another attempt to sidestep the issues. Microsoft and Bill Gates wants to control everything the consumer buys, from your computers and software to eventually your T.V., phone service, washer/dryer, toaster, etc. Microsoft and Bill Gates are terrorists to consumers.

A child came home from school and asked his mother if he could go out and play. The mother asked did he do all his homework. The child said yes. So the mother let him go out and play. The next day, the child's teacher calls the mother and says the boy hasn't been doing his homework for weeks. So when the boy came home from school, the mother said, "You told me you did all your homework." The boy said, "I thought I did do my homework." And the mother said, "And how about the previous weeks, how come you didn't do your homework?" The boy said, "I didn't think it applied to me, because all the other kids at school like me. Mom, can I go out and play now?" The mother said, "Well, go clean your room for 10 minutes and give me 2 dollars, then you can go do whatever you want." So, of course, the boy agrees.
